

Drug Abuse

Many legal and illegal drugs have abuse and addiction potential. These include narcotics (such as codeine, morphine, heroin), cocaine, amphetamines, methamphetamines, marijuana, LSD, tranquilizers (such as Valium), barbiturates, inhalants, and anabolic steroids - among many others.

Drug addiction is a pattern of misuse characterized by a loss of control, compulsive use, or use despite negative consequences. It is often manifested by tolerance and/or withdrawal. Tolerance means that more and more of the drug is needed to get to the same high (common in narcotics and tranquilizer abuse). Withdrawal means that the addicted person gets very sick when trying to stop the drug (also common in narcotic and tranquilizer abuse).

Dangers of drug abuse to physical and mental health include trauma, sudden cardiac death from arrhythmias and heart attacks, respiratory arrest, seizure, stroke, depression, anxiety, psychosis and delirium. Dangers to social health include job and financial loss, family and marital disruption, and legal entanglements.

Anyone currently abusing a substance will be declined for insurance. Those who have discontinued this behavior for a minimum of two years may be considered.

Underwriting guidelines for drug use and abuse are:

Marijuana, limited use	Standard to Table B
Marijuana, heavy use	Rated as below for other substances
Other substances	Minimum postponement of 2 years. Ratings then will range from standard to Table F, depending on time since abstinence/sobriety began

Adjustments (up or down) may be made to the above ratings, depending on: severity and frequency of the abuse, type of drug abused, severity of associated complications, evidence of dependence and/or withdrawal, legal problems related to abuse (such as DUIs), abuse of multiple drugs (including alcohol), number of relapses, and current participation in a group such as Narcotics Anonymous.
